

[SEND US YOUR MEMORIES]

and help us secure the future of South African fish

Fishtory is a collaborative research program that delves into historical records to help scientists create a picture of what recreational fish stocks looked like in the past and better understand the extent of their decline along the South African coastline.

We invite you to become an integral part of the science that can protect our precious marine resources and safeguard our fishing heritage into the future.

FISHTORY

Send us your old photos, angling journals and newspaper records or visit our website to find out more.

www.fishtory.co.za

Fishtory is part of the FishforLife project.
www.fishforlife.co.za

